EXPLOSION OF POWDER MILL RESULTS IN TWO FATALITIES

Near Scene of Similar Disaster, Which Occured in September, 1905, Magazine of Oriental Works Lets Go.

Two men were killed and another seriously injured in an explosion early yesterday morning at the Oriental Powder Company's works, a short distance from Fairchance. Tony Frozo, an Italian, was instantly killed, while William Hickle, of High House, was so badly injured that he died shortly after the accident. Charles Fike, was seriously injured but will survive. The cause of the accident is not known. The big magazine was blown to atoms, but fortunately there was but one day's run on hand. About 800 kegs of giant powder went up. The two men killed were in the magazine at the time. This building is removed some distance away from the works, which are located at the foot of the mountains, above Oliphant, and little damage was done to them.

The shock was felt for several miles around. Much excitement was caused in Fairchance and surrounding coke towns and for a time wild rumors were afloat. The men had just come to work when the accident occured. Frozo was 21 years of age and single, but Hickle, who was 24, leaves a wife.

Some time ago the Rond Powder works also located at Fairchance, blew up when 18 men lost their lives, and the agitation of getting the powder mills out of the neighborhood, has been renewed by the citizens of the town, who are much worked up over the matter. Had there been more powder in the magazine the entire place would have been wiped Asks Court for Injunction.

The borough of Centerville, by its attorney T. F. Birch, has begun injunction proceedings against the Pennsylvania, Monongahela & Southern Railroad company. The petition states that the railroad company is building an exceedingly dangerous grade crossing on the Brownsville road near Lock No. 5. The crossing has a deep cut on one side and a deep fill on the other side. The borough asks that the the company be compelled to place either an overhead or an underground crossing.

W. A. POWELL WON "STAR" ROCKER.

As was arranged, the drawing for the Star theatre rocker took place last evening, immediately after the last performance Considerable enthusiasm prevailed when Manager McShaffrey announced that the drawing would immediately commence Mr. Miller, the Schoonmaker avenue clothier and Mr. W. A. McCreary acted as judges, and a little girl from the audience drew the numbers. The tickets sold during the week were placed in a box and five were taken out, the fifth and winning number being 1710. It was held by Mr. W. A. Powell who was in the audience. Mr. McShaffrey then presented the chair to Mr. Powell, with a neat little speech.

Everything was conducted in a fair and square manner, and the management is to be congratulated upon the success of the scheme.

INVESTIGATING CAUSE OF EPIDEMIC

Dr A. B. Moulton, of Harrisburg, a special representative of the State Board of Health, is at present in Greensburg investigating into the cause of typhoid fever which has become epidemic there. In speaking of the way typhoid fever is contracted, Dr. Moulton said that there are many ways that it may be contracted that it is not always owing to unsanitary arrangements. These deficiencies however, he says, have much to do with it A chemical analysis of the water furnished by the Greensburg Water Co., a short time ago, shows the water, according to reports, to be practically pure, yet new cases of fever are showing up with continual rapidity. To find the cause of the outbreak and trace it to its source is the reason for this investigation

LOCAL CAPITALISTS PURCHASE BIG TRACT OF W. VA., COAL LAND

$50,000 Deal Just Put Through by Luce Bros. of This City---Development Expected in Near Future.

Another large tract of West Virginia coal land has just been sold to a party of capitalists, composed of Monessen and Belle Vernon men, through the agency of the well known real estate firm of Luce Bros., of this city, and W. W. Luce of Belle Vernon. J. L. Luce of Perryopolis also figured in the deal. The tract, which is in Preston county, contains 2,500 acres of good coking coal, and is located in the little Sandy Creek region. It comprises two veins, one the Lower Freeport vein 7 feet, 8 inches and the Kittanning vein six feet in thickness. The consideration being $50,000, or at the rate of $20 per acre.

Coal activity in the Preston county region is at its heighth. Louck Bros., of Scottdale, have just closed a deal for a block of 10,000 acres adjoining the 2,500 acres purchased by the local capitalists.

The territory is but 18 miles from the famous Connellsville Coke fields and the coal is said to be of a fine quality particularly suitable for coking purposes. It is understood that development will begin in the near future and it is expected that the Preston county region will see a great coal and coke movement in the near future.

During the past year Luce Bros. have sold many thousands of acres of coal land in Western Pennsylvania, and they are recognized as agents of remarkable ability in handling coal and farming lands. They have at present options on several tracts of fine coal land which will likely change hands in the next few months.

For a Slender Silver Ring

...By...

M. MAUDE WRIGHT

"'I never will marry a man who does not think enough of me to give me anything less than a diamond ring.' Those are the very words I used," said Amelia Jones as she flashed a diamond before Mrs. Berkley's astonished eyes.

"And Bob?"

"Oh, he first looked surprised, then angry; muttered something about the ring being set with my birthday stone and that it was the best he could afford. Then he walked off without another word."

"Of course he came back or you would not be wearing the ring."

"I must confess that I was a little bit frightened, for I do think a heap of Bob, and you never know what a man will do, but he came back the very next day and brought me this beautiful diamond ring. You see, he really cares for me," said Amelia.

"Well," said Mrs. Berkley, "I don't see how he could afford it, for he is not as well off as Joe was before we were married."

A sudden thought struck her, for she slyly concealed her left hand, but not before Amelia had noticed the action.

"Oh, Mrs. Berkley," she said impulsively, "do let me see your wedding ring. I do not remember noticing it. I know it must be something fine, for they do say that Joe Berkley was heels over head in love with you before you were married."

A flush spread over Mrs. Berkley's face.

"It is not a diamond," she faltered.

"I am sure, then, it is something equally nice. Now, Mrs. Berkley, please don't be so modest," said Amelia as she wickedly pulled the hand from its hiding place, revealing a very slender band of silver.

"Oh!" Perhaps Amelia put more meaning into this exclamation than she intended, but there certainly was scorn. "Is this the kind of a ring Mr. Berkley gave you? He should be ashamed of himself, and he could have afforded to give you a diamond ring better than Bob could afford to give me one. Of course he cared for you, but men have strange ways of showing their love sometimes."

The flush on Mrs. Berkley's face grew deeper as she pulled her hand away.

"It was made out of a dime." There was no further explanation. "I left some beans in the oven and must go," said she and left.

When she reached her home she went up to her room and snatched the ring from her finger as if it burned and threw it into a bureau drawer out of sight.

"I never will wear it again—never!" She stamped her foot angrily on the carpet. "He didn't care for me or he never would have given me a ring that would hold me up to scorn. Oh, yes; he has been good to me, but then he is good to his clerks, his dog and everything else." Her pride had been wounded sorely.

She hoped her husband would miss the ring and thus give her a chance to say something, but if he did not miss the ring he missed something else—her usual cheery chat.

"Are you ill, Frances?" he asked, with real concern in his voice.

"No," she answered curtly.

"Has anything happened, then?"

"Oh, enough has happened," she said coldly.

Her tones caused him apprehension.

"Amelia Jones and Bob Dalesford are engaged," she said finally, not knowing just how to begin.

"Is that all?" he laughed.

Mrs. Berkley did not smile.

"Bob gave Amelia a beautiful diamond ring, which showed that he cared something for her."

Something in her tone made him look down at the finger that should have worn the wedding ring.

She noticed his glance and answered it. "I never will wear it again, for you did not care anything for me when you gave me such a ring as that—a paltry ten cent ring, a target for ridicule! You could have afforded to have given me a diamond ring better than Bob Dalesford could afford to give Amelia one, yet you did not even give me a gold one—and—and—and you pretended to love me! I was a fool. I know better now."

Mr. Berkley winced as if he had been struck. He rose and left the room, and Mrs. Berkley noticed with a pang at her heart that his usually straight shoulders were bent as from age, yet she did not call him back.

Nothing more was said about the ring, and things went on much as usual, only instead of cheer, sunshine and a sympathy there were silence, gloom and misunderstanding. Mrs. Berkley could not help noticing the haggard look that had settled down on her husband's face, and when she looked into the glass she knew that her own face was getting pale.

Several days had passed thus when another diamond was flashed before Mrs. Berkley's eyes; this time the ring was in the hand of her husband.

"I have brought you a diamond to show that I care for you—yes, I care very much indeed," he said earnestly. "Give me your hand, and we will see how it will fit." He tried to speak playfully.

"I don't want the diamond. How can I wear two wedding rings?"

Then he noticed the slender silver band on her finger. A happy light lit up his face.

"I want you to wear the diamond ring anyway. Give me the silver ring, and I will wear it next my heart out of sight."

"I am going to wear the silver ring always!" said Mrs. Berkley determinedly. Then, suddenly and severely, "Joe Berkley, how much did you pay for that diamond?"

"Three hundred dollars."

"Where did you get the money? You told me when you bought that last lot of goods that you only had $50 left in the bank." A frightened look came into her face. "You didn't"—

"No, I did not borrow or steal it. I sold the store, and tomorrow I take my old place as clerk in it, just where I was when we were married."

"Joe Berkley, I had just come to the conclusion that I was a fool, but I never dreamed you were one too!"

"I thought a diamond was necessary to show that I loved you."

"Well, if you care for me now you will take that ring back to the jewelers, and then you will march right down the street and buy back the store. Make whatever explanations you wish, but buy back the store."

The very next day Mrs. Berkley went to call on Amelia Jones.

"Oh, Mrs. Berkley, how glad I am to see you. I used you so horrid the other day. Can you ever forgive me?" exclaimed Amelia as she drew her into the room.

"Certainly. There was a little bit of romance in connection with the ring made out of a dime that I thought you would be interested in," began Mrs. Berkley without any preliminaries as soon as she was seated. "I first met Mr. Berkley on a street car. I pulled out a dime to pay the conductor when it slipped from my fingers and fell to the floor. Joe Berkley, who was sitting near, sprang up to search for it, but just then the car stopped at my destination, and I had no time to wait for the lost coin. Mr. Berkley slipped a nickel into my hand, saying he would pay my fare and keep the dime when he found it. I thanked him and left the car. The next day we met on the car again, and of course it was natural that I should ask him if he had found the dime. He had, and this opened the way for further conversation. We met often after this, and—well, you know the rest. Mr. Berkley had the dime made into a ring, and he asked me to wear it always.

"You see why I prize it above any diamond ring he could give me." Her voice was full of feeling as she finished.

"How fine!" Amelia's eyes were shining with a new light. "No, the kind of a ring does not matter, after all," she added softly as if to herself. "I believe I will tell Bob that I prefer the ring set with my birthday stone; he really could not afford the diamond anyway."

During the Rush Hour.

She—Were you ever in a street car accident? He—Yes. The car was completely wrecked, but the passengers were packed so tight that only the outside layers were injured.—Chicago News.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
To find relief and cure?
No reason why any reader
Should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Almira A. Jackson, of East Front St., Traverse City, Mich., says: "For twenty years I was doctoring for kidney and liver trouble but without benefit. Just before I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I was almost paralyzed. I could hardly stand on my feet because of the numbness and lack of circulation. Had a knife been thrust into my kidneys the pain could not have been more intense. My sleep was disturbed by visions of distorted figures. The kidney secretions were annoyingly irregular, and I was tortured with thirst and always bloated. I used seven boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. The bloating subsided until I weighed 100 pounds less, could sleep like a child and was relieved of the pain and the irregularity of the kidney action. My circulation is good and I feel better in every way."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Jackson will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price, 50 cents per box.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Need a good cathartic? A pill is best. Say a pill like DeWitt's Little Early Risers About the most reliable on the market Sold by R W Beck

For years I starved, then I bought a 50 cent bottle of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and what that bottle has lifted me all the gold in Georgia could not buy. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work as machinist In three months I was as well and hearty as I ever was still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic. May you live long and prosper —C N. Cornell, Reding, Ga., Aug. 27, 1906. Kodol is sold here by R. W. Beck.

Reprint, News-Herald. "There is at least one effectual, safe, and reliable Cough Cure—Dr. Shoop's—that we regard as suitable, even for the youngest child. For years, Dr. Shoop bitterly opposed the use of opiates or narcotics in medicine, of even $40 per drop to any one finding Opium, Chloroform, or any other poisonous or narcotic ingredient in Dr Shoop's Cough Cure. And the challenge is as yet unanswered Here is one manufacturing physician, who welcomed with much satisfaction, the new Government Pure Food and Drug Law. The public can now protect itself at all times, by insisting on having Dr Shoop's, when a cough remedy is needed" Sold by all dealers"

Food Commissioner's Report

The Minnesota Dairy and Food Commission's analysis shows that Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar and Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar contained opiates and croton oil. Opiates are poisons and croton oil is a violent poisonous purgative. Refuse to accept any but Foley's Honey and Tar in yellow package. Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates or dangerous drugs and is the best cough and cold cure.

A CHRISTMAS STORY

Told to the Boys and Girls of Monessen and Vicinity

Don't do your Christmas buying until next week, when McKenney's, the "young fellas home" shows you what they have.

We will aim to save you money on every little thing you buy, and a penny here and there will help your money to go farther and get more gifts. We appreciate that the average boy and girl's Christmas money is limited, and they have saved, schemed, and laid away a penny and a nickle at a time for months past, in order to have a good and happy Christmas time and many have to scheme all manner of ways to divide up the savings properly in order to get a present for Papa, a present for Mamma, one for brother, one for sister, one for baby, Grandma, Uncle and Aunt, and even then many times, when done, they find some dear one has been forgotten, and they are 10 or 25 cents short. What is to be done?

Well, possibly, Papa, Mamma or some good friend will help them out of the difficulty by giving the required amount.

However, on the other hand, there are many children who are not so fortunate; when their savings have been divided around and spent, they must stop buying no matter how much their little hearts prompt them to still remember the dear ones at home.

To such children and to all children we say come—we'll endeavor to help you make your money go just as far as it can, and farther than it will at any other place in town.

To the elder ones the same will apply. Our prices will be made a feature for Christmas buying—don't forget.

On the Capitol alleys last night the Keystones took two games out of three from the East Ends.

The prizes which will be awarded at the euchre to be given by the ladies of St. Leonard's Catholic church, are on exhibition in the windows of Light's Drug Store.

AT THE THEATRE

"The Proud Prince" with Porter J. White in the role of Robert King of Sicily will be the offering of Manager Shuster at the Monessen opera house Wednesday, December 12th.

For real dramatic value we recommend this piece to our readers. Written by Justin Huntley McCarthy it served E. H. Sothern as his starring vehicle until last season. Messrs. Nixon&Zimmerman then secured it for M. White and are now presenting it for the first time outside of the large cities. Associated with Mr. White will be found Margaret Barry, the well known Shakesperian scholar and reader as "Lycabetta," John Sturgeon the sterling character actor as Lord "Hildebrand" and Madeline Winthrop, the talented ingenue as 'Perpetua." There are twenty-two speaking parts and the balance of the supporting company is thoroughly competent to meet the demands made upon them. The scenic equipment and costly costuming of "The Proud Prince" marks a distinct epoch in modern stage craft.
